Re: ALBERTA AGRICULTURAL PROCESSING AND MANUFACTURING GUIDE 1973

This publication was prepared by Statistics Branch staff for use by those interested in Alberta's agricultural processing industry.

Unfortunately, this release is based on information available up to May of 1973 and does not account for any changes since then. As a partial solution to this problem, we are attaching tables listing those firms which have been constructed since then or are currently under construction. We hope to compile and release a similar publication early in 1975.

Any comments or corrections concerning this publication would be appreciated.

A handwritten signature in dark ink, appearing to read "H. H. Bryce". The signature is fluid and cursive, with the first name "H. H." and the last name "Bryce" clearly distinguishable.

H. H. BRYCE, Head,
Statistics Branch.

FOREWORD

The Alberta Agricultural Processing and Manufacturing Guide 1973 was published by Alberta Agriculture, Statistics Branch, to serve as a ready reference of Alberta firms processing and manufacturing Alberta agricultural products. The Guide provides information which may be valuable to researchers and administrators, exporters and importers, processing and manufacturing firms' managers and others connected with food processing in Alberta.

The Guide is divided into eight major sections. Each of the first six sections is further divided into categories within which the firms are listed alphabetically. A map preceeds each section and can be utilized as a reference for the distribution and number of relevant firms in an area. Firms producing several major products are indexed in all applicable categories. Information for most firms includes: postal address, telephone numbers, years established, type of ownership, number of employees, product processed and manufactured, brand names and sales area.

Although a concerted attempt was made to include all firms, some processing and manufacturing firms may not be listed. Exclusion from the guide may have been due to either the limited production volume of a firm, the small market area served, or the unavailability of information. Managers who feel that their firms were erroneously omitted from this guide and individuals interested in obtaining further information on specific food products are asked to refer to the last page of this publication.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The information for this publication was assembled by the group members employed with Alberta Agriculture, Statistics Branch, under the Alberta Government's Priority Employment Program (Winter 1972-73). The members were: Karen Anderson, Neil Polglase, Charles Schafer, Jim Wells, Eleanor Zazulak and Floyd Oberg.

Compilation of information for the guide would not have been possible without the considerable effort and cooperation of numerous people. Our grateful appreciation is extended to: the firms' managers who provided the pertinent information so vital to the publication; W. H. Bogdan, Provincial Cartographer, who provided the most adequate maps herein; the many employees of the related government branches for their assistance; H. H. Bryce, Head, Statistics Branch for his continuous assistance and critical evaluation and finally, J. K. Woychuk whose expertise in design, layout, editing, and proof-reading contributed greatly to the quality of presentation achieved.

A circular collage of black and white photographs, framed by a dark, stylized gear-like border. The collage is divided into a grid of rectangular panels, each containing a different image. The images include: a large industrial building with a tall chimney; a construction site with a crane; a herd of cattle; a large industrial facility with multiple chimneys; a large truck; a person looking through a telescope; and a large tractor. The overall theme is American industry and agriculture.

② NUMBER OF PLANTS

A circular collage of black and white photographs, framed by a dark, stylized border that resembles a gear or a compass rose. The collage is divided into a grid of squares, each containing a different image. The images include: a tall industrial structure, possibly a distillation column; a large crane or derrick; a herd of sheep; a large industrial building with a complex roof structure; a large truck or trailer; a person looking through a microscope; and a large tractor or heavy machinery. The overall theme is industrial and agricultural progress.

SKELETON OUTLINE OF POSSIBILITIES UNDER THE MARKETING OF AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTS ACT

BOARD

1. Members are producers, elected by producers.
2. A plan for a Board must be voted upon by those producers deemed eligible to vote.
3. Boards may:
 - (a) negotiate prices with the trade for prices to be paid producers.
 - (b) set prices to be paid producers, but must be guided by advice of Industry Advisory Committee.
 - (c) sell the product for producers through a single sales agency. (Compulsory.)
4. Fee or levy can be collected on all the products marketed by producers. First receivers collect this levy and forward it to the Board.
5. Marketing quotas may be established.
6. Boards may collect information and inspect documents or premises relating to the production and marketing of the regulated product.

COMMISSION

1. Members may be all producers or some combination of producers and trade, appointed by the Lieutenant Governor in Council or elected by producers, or some combination of election and appointment.
2. A plan for a Commission does not require a vote by producers, although a vote may be held.
3. Commissions may:
 - (a) establish quality standards and carry out advertising, educational and research programs.
 - (b) provide for the establishment of a sales agency through which a farm product may be marketed on a voluntary basis.
4. Fee or levy can be collected on all the product marketed by producers. The levy may be collected directly from the producer, or first receivers collect and forward the levy to the Commission. In the case of a Commission that establishes a sales agency, all the product marketed is subject to the levy whether it is marketed through the sales agency or not.
5. Marketing quotas are not permissible.
6. Commissions may collect information and inspect documents or premises relating to the production and marketing of the regulated product.

A large, stylized graphic of a globe with a grid overlay, containing various black and white photographs of industrial and agricultural scenes. The globe is set against a dark, angular background. The grid is composed of squares of varying sizes, some of which contain photographs. The photographs depict various scenes: a tall industrial tower, a large crane, a herd of cattle, a large industrial building, a truck, a person using a microscope, and a large truck. The overall theme is industrial and agricultural progress.
